

DRAWING ROOM

The mantle is English. It's all brick and they had to wait six months to finish the house for the mantle to arrived. They wanted to instal that before they finished the floors.

The writing table under James' portrait is French from the late 18th century and should really sit in the middle of the room because the back side is as decorated as the front.

The portrait of James is a photograph and James painted the background.

The sofa is English Chipendale.

The little commode back in the corner is 18th century French. Notice all the inlaid wood/marquetry.
